Overview

Take courses to become a child care center director

Take your leadership abilities and passion for working with children to the next level by becoming a child care center director or substitute director. Colorado State University’s online courses fulfill the requirements necessary to apply for your Official Large Center Director Qualification Letter (OLCDQL) in Colorado, as well as qualifications in many other states.

For more information on child care director qualifications in the state of Colorado, including requirements and application procedures, please visit the Colorado Department of Human Services Division of Child Care website.

For more information about obtaining coursework through CSU, please view our handout. If you will be seeking Director Qualifications outside of Colorado, please check your state requirements to ensure the coursework offered through CSU is applicable.

Curriculum

Through these courses you will advance your knowledge of child development theory, learn applied practices to better meet children’s needs, and gain administrative skills to manage staff, clients, budgets, and licensing.
